

TENNIS CHAMPION DOHERTY DIES AT HOME IN ENGLAND

Reginald, "the Taller One" of Brothers Noted on Court, Had Been Sick Some Time.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Reginald F. Doherty, known in the world of tennis as "the taller one" of the noted Doherty brothers, who captured the National Lawn Tennis Championship at Newport, R. I., in 1902, died at his home here today.

The two brothers were exceptionally popular at home and abroad, ranking among the best players at the nets in the world. Their first visit to America was in 1902, when they constituted part of the team sent to win the international challenge cup. In a series of brilliant matches played at the courts of the Crescent Athletic Club at Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, the English team was defeated, Doherty losing to M. D. Whitman.

During this visit to America the Doherty brothers played at Longwood, Mass., and Reginald F. Doherty defeated such crack players as Wright Ward, Davis and the Kewens, and lost to Larned and Whitman.

They returned to America the following year, and on Aug. 21, 1903, they won the National Lawn Tennis Championship in the match for the Davis Cup. This was the final time that the title and trophy had been won by an English team. They played against Ward and Davis in the finals, and the score was 11-9, 12-10, 6-4.

They defended the title successfully in a match at Wimbledon on July 22 against Holcombe Ward and Heals C. Wright, and again won against the same American team in 1906.

While the Doherty brothers were in the full flush of success, Reginald's health began to fail. He was seen occasionally on the courts, but his hopes took a serious turn recently, culminating in his death today.

COMBUSTIBLE RUBBISH
FROM MANY FLAT HOUSES.

Janitors Remove Tons of Fire Men-aging Stuff After Warning Given by Chief Croker.

The warning to property owners which Fire Chief Croker sounded yesterday when he said, at the meeting of the negative Graft Committee that the greatest menace to fire was the rubbish in the cellars of tenement houses, had an effect. Janitors in many parts of the city were busy today cleaning away tons of such rubbish from the cellars of flat houses in their charge.

A remarkable instance of the truth of the Fire Chief's words was shown on the hundred and twelfth street, between 86 and 90th avenues, where from the cellars of three tenements was moved and thrown on the street a pile of debris which must have weighed more than a ton. It stood six feet high and was three times as long. The police warned the janitor to have the rubbish immediately removed. They declared it to be a menace to public health.

Similar piles were found in front of hundreds of tenements on the east side.

RUN OVER BOY, THEN FLEE.

Man and Woman in Buggy Escape
After Injuring Bronx Lad.

Robert Young, ten years old, of No.
290 Italy avenue, the Bronx, who was run over by a buggy occupied by a man and a woman, in front of No. 290 Italy Road, is in a serious condition today in Fordham Hospital. The man whipped up the horse after the accident and escaped.

Robert was playing with other children last night when the rubber tired buggy approached. The others got out of the way, but the vehicle passed over Robert's body. A man in another team chased the buggy for five blocks, but it got away. The police have a good description of it.
